How to use the Class Planner

> A class that is planned on paper feels calm in the room. This template matches the structure of every class in the library.

1. Start with the goal. One sentence: what should the client feel or be able to do by the end?
2. Block out the time. 10 minutes of warm-up, 40 of main block, 10 of cool-down.
3. Pick exercises by category: spine, abs, legs, arms, full body, balance, then stretch. Use the exercise index in Volumes 1 to 3.
4. Write the dosage and the cue next to each exercise, so you never improvise in the room.
5. Check the minutes. Each block must add up to its target.
6. Write notes after class so the next plan is easier.

Build a class in 5 minutes

Choose one level, one equipment, and three categories for the main block. Pick 2 to 3 exercises per category, then fill the warm-up with breath and mobility and the cool-down with stretches.
