Building Your Brand Identity

Building Your Brand Identity

ne the look, feel, and voice of your edible candle brand before you t a single label.

Choosing Your Brand Name

Your brand name is the first thing customers see. Here are a few guidelines for choosing one that sticks:

- [ ] Keep it short — two or three words are ideal
- [ ] Make it memorable and easy to spell
- [ ] Avoid names already taken by local competitors
- [ ] Think about how it looks on a small label (long names shrink into unreadable text)
- [ ] Say it out loud — does it roll off the tongue?

> Brainstorming Exercise
> Write down five words that describe your candles (e.g., cozy, gourmet, handmade, golden, indulgent). Now pair them with five nouns (flame, glow, wax, wick, scent). Mix and match until something clicks.

Defining Your Visual Style

Your visual style should match how your candles feel. Pick one lane and stay consistent:

Minimalist
Clean lines, lots of white space, a single accent color. Fonts: thin sans-serif. Works well for modern, urban audiences.

Rustic
Kraft textures, hand-drawn elements, warm earth tones. Fonts: rounded serif or handwritten. Ideal for farmers' market vibes.

Elegant
Gold foil details, rich dark backgrounds, refined serif fonts. Works for gift-market positioning and premium pricing.

Building a Color Palette

Pick three to five colors that represent your brand. Use them everywhere — labels, packaging, social media, business cards.

ROLE	WHAT IT DOES	EXAMPLE
Primary	Main brand color — dominates labels and headers	Deep brown, forest green, navy
Accent	Draws the eye to key elements (product name, price)	Gold, copper, burnt orange
Background	The surface color of your label or packaging	Cream, white, kraft tan
Text	Readable body text color	Charcoal, dark gray, espresso
Highlight	Seasonal or limited-edition pop of color	Berry red, sage green, dusty rose

Quick Tip

Test your color palette by printing a sample label at home. Colors on screen always look different on paper. Adjust before ordering bulk prints.

Choosing Fonts

Stick to two fonts maximum — one for headings (your product name), one for body text (ingredients, instructions).

Serif Fonts

Classic, trustworthy, elegant. Great for premium or traditional brands. Examples: Georgia, Playfair Display, Garamond.

Sans-Serif Fonts

Modern, clean, approachable. Good for minimalist or health-conscious brands. Examples: Lato, Open Sans, Montserrat.

Avoid These Mistakes

Never use more than two fonts on a single label. Avoid novelty or script fonts for ingredient lists — they become illegible at small sizes. And always check that your chosen fonts are free for commercial use.

Product Label Templates

Product Label Templates

t-ready label designs. Fill in your details, print on sticker paper, and to size.

Below are eight label templates in different shapes and styles. Each one is designed to be printed on standard sticker or label paper. Fill in the placeholder text with your actual brand name, product details, and ingredients before printing.

How to Use These Templates

Print this PDF, then handwrite your product details on the labels. Or, open this file in a browser and edit the text directly before printing. For best results, use a color laser printer and matte sticker paper.

Template 1 — Round Label (3-Inch)

Ideal for jar lids and the top of pillar candles. Print on 3-inch round sticker paper.

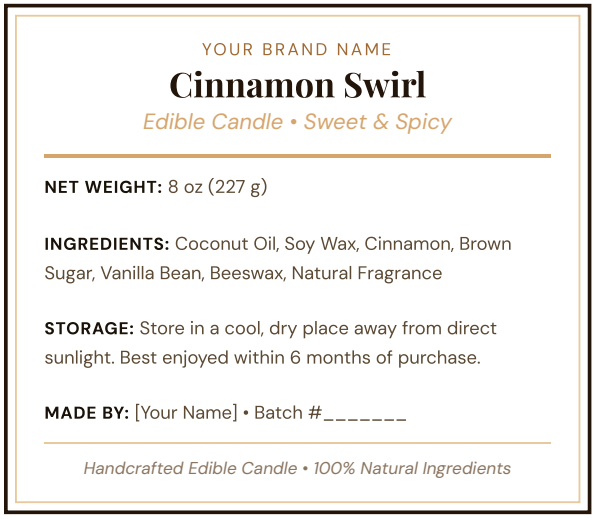

Printing Note

Set your printer to “Actual Size” (not “Fit to Page”) so the circle measures exactly 3 inches across.

Template 2 — Rectangle Product Label

The workhorse label. Contains everything a customer needs: name, flavor, weight, ingredients, storage, and your maker line. Sized for standard jar sides.

Template 3 — Gift Tag

Tie this to a ribbon or string for a polished gift presentation. Perfect for holiday sets and party favors.

Print multiples on a single sheet, then cut and punch a hole at the top for ribbon.

Template 4 — Oval Label

An elegant alternative to the round label. Works beautifully on wide jars and tins.

The oval shape conveys a sense of refinement. Pair it with a metallic sticker paper for a premium finish.

Template 5 — Wrap-Around Label

A full-coverage label that wraps around the jar. Provides maximum space for information while creating a polished, store-quality look.

Template 6 — Hexagon Label

A modern, eye-catching shape that stands out on any shelf. Great for artisan markets.

Template 7 — Seal / Badge Label

A dark, premium-looking badge label. Use it as a secondary seal on gift boxes or as a standalone lid topper.

Template 8 — Square Label with Rounded Corners

A versatile, modern shape. Works on boxes, flat-topped tins, and as a back-label with additional details.

Print-Ready Label Sheet

Below is a sample sheet layout showing how to arrange multiple labels for efficient printing. Cut along the outer edges after printing.

Ingredient List Template

Every food product needs an ingredient list. Even if you sell at a local market rather than a retail store, a clear ingredient list builds trust and protects customers with allergies.

The Rules of Ingredient Listing

1. List by weight. The ingredient you use the most goes first, the one you use the least goes last.
2. Use common names. Write “Coconut Oil” rather than “Cocos nucifera oil.” Save the scientific names for your regulatory filings.
3. Call out allergens. If your product contains any of the major allergens (milk, eggs, wheat, soy, tree nuts, peanuts), state them clearly — either bold them in the ingredient list or add a separate “Contains:” line.
4. Include sub-ingredients. If you use chocolate chips, list what is in the chocolate chips (cocoa mass, sugar, cocoa butter, etc.).
5. Be honest. If you use a fragrance oil that is not food-grade, do not call it “natural flavor.” Only use terms you can back up.

Important Disclaimer

Labeling requirements vary by country, state, and local jurisdiction. These templates provide a starting framework. Always check your local food labeling regulations before selling. When in doubt, consult your local health department or a food labeling professional.

Template C — Customer Testimonial Request

Send this to customers after purchase. Testimonials are gold for your brand.

Hi [Customer Name]! 👏

Thank you so much for trying our [Flavor Name] edible candle! We hope you loved it.

If you have a moment, we'd be incredibly grateful if you could share your honest experience. Here are a few questions to get you started:

• What was your favorite part — the scent while burning, or the taste when melted?
• How did you use the melted wax? (On food? As a topping? Straight from the jar?)
• Would you recommend it to a friend?

A quick photo of your candle in action would mean the world to us! 📸

Thank you for supporting our small business. Your words help us grow. 🙏

Template D — Seasonal Promotion

Adapt for holidays, seasons, or special events. Swap the bracketed details each time.

🎄 [Season/Holiday] is almost here — and we have something special!

For a limited time, get our [Seasonal Flavor Name] edible candle. It's [describe the flavor experience] in candle form.

✨ Special offer: [describe the deal — bundle, discount, free gift with purchase]

Perfect as a gift for [who: mom, teacher, host, coworker] — or, honestly, for yourself. We won't judge. 😉

Only [quantity] available. Once they're gone, they're gone until next [season].

Order Form Tips

Print a stack of these and keep them at your market table with a pen. For repeat customers, keep a copy for your records and give them one as a receipt. This simple system keeps your orders organized and your customers confident.

Business Card Layout

ofessional card template sized at standard business card dimensions
× 2 inches).

Print these on pre-perforated business card paper (available at any office supply store) or upload the design to an online printing service.

Front of Card

Back of Card

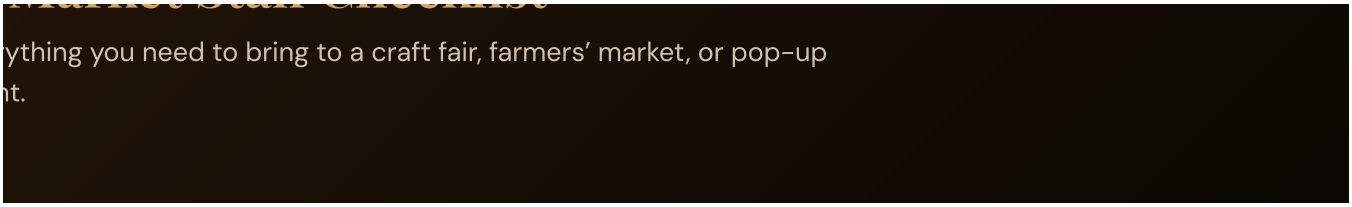

Design Notes

Keep the front of your card clean and bold — just your brand name, tagline, and your name. Put details on the back. This creates a memorable first impression. Use a thick cardstock (at least 14pt) for a premium feel.

What NOT to Include

Do not cram your card with information. A business card is a conversation starter, not a brochure. Your brand name, your name, your location, and one line about what you do — that is enough. Save the rest for a follow-up conversation.

Market Stall Checklist

There is nothing worse than arriving at your first market and realizing you forgot something critical. Use this checklist every time. Print it, laminate it, and keep it in your market kit.

Products & Inventory

- [ ] Edible candles (full inventory, sorted by flavor)
- [ ] Sample/tester candles (small sizes for customers to smell and taste)
- [ ] Extra stock in boxes under the table
- [ ] Inventory count sheet (track what you bring vs. what you sell)

Display & Branding

- [ ] Tablecloth (solid color that matches your brand)
- [ ] Table risers or wooden crates for height variation
- [ ] Price tags or price list (use the template from Section 5)
- [ ] Brand banner or sign with your business name
- [ ] Business cards (use the template from Section 7)
- [ ] Menu/flavor description cards
- [ ] Candle holders or stands for product display

Packaging & Labels

- [ ] Pre-labeled products (labels from Section 2 applied)
- [ ] Gift bags or boxes for gift purchases
- [ ] Tissue paper or shredded paper for padding
- [ ] Ribbon or twine for gift wrapping
- [ ] Gift tags (use the template from Section 2)
- [ ] Extra blank labels in case you need to re-label on-site

Sales & Payment

- [ ] Cash box with change (coins and small bills)
- [ ] Mobile card reader (charged and tested before you leave)
- [ ] Order forms (use the template from Section 6)
- [ ] Receipt book or printed receipts
- [ ] Calculator
- [ ] Pen and notepad

Health & Safety

- [ ] Food handler's permit (if required in your area)
- [ ] Ingredient list copies for customers with allergies
- [ ] Hand sanitizer and disposable tasting spoons
- [ ] Napkins
- [ ] Disposable gloves for handling samples
- [ ] Trash bag

Comfort & Logistics

- [ ] Chair
- [ ] Shade cover (canopy or umbrella) for outdoor markets
- [ ] Weights or clamps to secure the canopy
- [ ] Extension cord (check if electricity is available)
- [ ] Phone charger / power bank
- [ ] Water bottle and snacks for yourself
- [ ] Layers of clothing (outdoor markets can shift temperature fast)

> Pro Tip: The Night Before
> Pack everything the night before the market. Load your car. Set an alarm 30 minutes earlier than you think you need. Arriving early gives you time to set up calmly, take a photo of your display, and be fully ready when the first customer walks up.

After the Market

When you get home, count your remaining inventory, tally your sales, and write down what worked and what did not. Which flavors sold fastest? Which got the most questions? Did people ask for something you do not offer yet? This data is how you grow your business, one market at a time.
